MURDOCK CANDY CO. CHANGES HANDS

A deal was consummated in this city Saturday whereby some of our most prominent citizens purchased the entire business formerly known as the Murdock Candy Co. The principal men known in the deal are Dr. I. S. Smith, Luther Howell and Leo Neilsen. They have already commenced remodeling and renovating the place and in the future they promise this will be one of the most modern confectionery stores in this state. At press time yesterday they had not completed their organization due to the fact that a great many young men in town still retained options on some of the stock which is yet to be sold. In a day or two a new organization will be effected and the company will then reach out after the big business in this section. Telegrams have been sent to men in different cities familiar with the candy business in search of a good live wire who can take the management of this business and handle it successfully. Dr. Smith stated yesterday that they would not hire a man for this position until they were confident of securing the services of some one who will come here and make good. The Murdock Candy Co. located in the heart of our city, is bound to succeed, under the direction of such capable men as those mentioned above. The Republican joins with the towns people in wishing this company much success in their new endeavor.

TALLEST MAN IN THE WORLD COMES TO U. S.

The tallest man in the world has arrived in America. He is John Van Albert of Amsterdam, Holland, who is 8 feet 5 inches tall. He comes to join an American circus. He is of normal proportions despite his abnormal size. He wears a 14 glove, 9 1-4 hat and No. 13 shoes. No stateroom was large enough for him on the boat he came on, so he was forced to sleep in the companionway on two cots placed end to end.

MEMORIAL SERVICES ON MAY 31ST.

The Entertainment committee of the Chamber of Commerce is cooperating with the City Commission in arranging for appropriate memorial services at the cemetery on Decoration Day, May 31st. The city and the Chamber started the innovation four years ago and it is the intention to hold the services every year. The committee will meet with Mayor Howell and all the details will be worked out.

The committee for the improvement of the cemetery will use every effort to see that the roads and the walks leading to and in the grounds are in good condition. Commissioner John A. Crockett has charge of the cemetery and is also chairman of the Chamber committee on the improvement of the grounds so we may look for some extensive improvements.

ELOQUENT TRIBUTE AT SQUIRES FUNERAL

The large tabernacle was filled to overflowing with sorrowing friends and relatives of the Squires family at the funeral services of their good wife and mother, on Sunday at 2 p. m. The service was impressive, the music beautiful and the flowers contributed by sorrowing friends were many and beautiful.

The service opened by the choir singing "Let the Lower Lights be Burning," and the opening prayer was offered by President Joseph Shepard of the Logan temple. Elder Frank Baugh and Mrs. Stark sang "I Know My Heavenly Father Knows," very beautifully.

Elder George D. Casto delivered a fitting and eloquent eulogy on the life, character and example of the deceased. He said that on October 16, 1847, Mrs. Alice Squires was born and before she had reached her sixth birthday she was wending her way across the plains, walking most of the way, arriving at Salt Lake City in 1856. Just behind the company in which Mrs. Squires came was John F. Squires who married her in 1868. The fruits of this union were twelve children, eight boys and four girls, and of this number six boys and three girls are now living. He touched upon her sunny disposition, saying that she had many times experienced the pinch of poverty and felt the pangs of hunger, but that she was never discouraged, and always brought cheer and sunshine in the family circle. When others were sad and downcast she would say "Cheer up, let's be happy, tomorrow will be brighter." He spoke of her ideal home life, saying that her life was one of love for home and the things that go to make it beautiful.

President Lucy S. Cardon of the Relief Society spoke of her faithfulness in that capacity. She said she was a faithful teacher and always spoke well of her co-laborers. On the 17th of March, she said, Mrs. Squires went to the temple to celebrate with her co-laborers the organization of the Relief Society, an event which gave her much pleasure and satisfaction.

Elder Frank Baugh sang the "Link Divine."

Elder Newell W. Kimball, friend and neighbor, was the next speaker. He had known Sister Squires ever since she was a little girl and declared that she was a devoted woman and mother, and one that could be absolutely relied on. He very touchingly told of her last farewell to the family how she took each one by the hand and bade them a fond good-bye.

Mrs. Stark sang a solo.

President Heber J. Grant was the last speaker. He spoke of his early acquaintance with Mrs. Squires when her mother and his were bosom friends in the days when they sewed on the costumes at the Salt Lake theatre. He said as a child he loved Mrs. Squires, that his tribute was one such as a child has for another, and that there is no tribute greater than the love of childhood. He never remembered meeting her that she did not have a smile on her face, and declared that she has been in life all that her husband and children could hope. President Grant said that the individual that so orders his life that those who know him best love him most and is loved of God, lives a successful life. Alice Squires lived a successful life, because she is loved of God, and those

GIRL HELD BENEATH BURNING AUTO, DIES

New York, May 10.—Helen Brogley, 23, of Newark, N. J., perished in agony beneath a burning automobile which had turned turtle early this morning at Queens boulevard and Old Mill road, Queensborough. She was declared by witnesses of the tragedy, aroused from bed by her screams to have been abandoned in her extremity by two men, who dragged off the other girl who had been with them in the car, despite her screams.

"For God's sake save Helen! She is burning to death," the girl was said to have pleaded. But she was dragged from the scene, thrust into another car and driven away, witnesses declared.

The girl who vainly pleaded for her friend was Frieda Bartels, also of Newark. The driver was John Daly, 23, and the police are seeking the identity of the second man, Daly who is now in custody, denied the witnesses story of the girl victim being abandoned, while screaming in death agony. Frieda Bartels was also been questioned, but the police declined to reveal what she told them. The dead girl was married, a bride of several months, but recently had parted from her husband, since which time she has used the name of Helen Murray.

Last night under a grueling by Assistant District Attorney Ryan of Queensborough, Daly gave the name of the second man in the party as Walter F. Flannigan, Long Island City, an automobile mechanic, who has a wife and four children. It was largely upon Flannigan's account that they hurried from the scene while the flames still enveloped the girl, he admitted, according to Mr. Ryan, because the notoriety might be unpleasant for a married man.

It was Flannigan who proposed the joy ride with two girls on Saturday night, Daly told Ryan. He said that in Brooklyn they met the two girls who were employed in a Newark restaurant as waitresses. They visited various cafes and were speeding toward Jamaica when the car turned turtle and caught fire, he said.

The police are seeking Flannigan.

Attention All Merchants: The Merchants committee of the Chamber has called a special meeting for this morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of discussing some taxation matters. Be sure and be present. This concerns you. Mr. C. F. Olsen, the county assessor, will be present to give some special information.

who know her best love her most. She has been a faithful, diligent and true Latter-day Saint mother, and this is one of the great testimonies of the truth of the gospel. He said that during the past few years he had traveled much and in all his travels he had never seen or heard anything to make him doubt the truthfulness of the gospel, but on the other hand his travels had brought forth many evidences that proved that the Latter-day Saints had that which others do not have. Bishop Merkley extended the thanks of the family for the many kindnesses rendered by sympathetic friends and relatives during the sad bereavement, and the choir sang "Jesus My Saviour."

The benediction was pronounced by Elder John T. Caine.

Robert Murdock Jr. formerly of this city but now engaged in business at Rigby, Idaho, is in town looking after business interests.
